announce
an international scientific conference

Mobility in the contemporary world.
Social and spatial mobility in contemporary Central Europe.

Mobility is one of the crucial phenomena in the contemporary world. It influences a number of social processes, at both micro- and macro-structural level. Social mobility offers a wide variety of opportunities to improve one's position in social stratification system by changing individuals' social status. At a more general level, Social mobility touches the issues of social capital, the changing patterns of family life, or it stimulates a new range of intercultural contacts, cultural globalization, policy matters and international relations.

The conference is to meet, confront and discuss a variety of points of views to investigate the present face of migration issues in Central Europe.
